DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (If known) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

525 St. Paul:

This masonry building is two bays wide and two stories high. It has a stone foundation and a flat roof with a parapet on the facade.

On the first story, three stone steps lead to a double door of glass with a one piece transom. To its right is a store front window consisting of three large sheet glass panels. Above the doorway and first story window are inset glass squares, twenty-five in each recess. Above these are the second story windows. These are one-over-one and double hung, with straight bond sills and a beveled frame above the top sash. The windows are set in flat-arched recesses. The center and right windows are paired and share a common mullion.

523 St. Paul:

This building adjoins 525 St. Paul Street and is of the same configuration as 523 St. Paul, although it is slightly wider. The doorway is also wider, and it contains thirty-three square glass sidelights set into the entrance recess. The left and center windows of the second story are paired, instead of the right and center paired configuration in the windows of the same story at 525.
